We Can Help

More than half of the children cared for by children's hospitals come from poor or low-income families. Most of them rely on low or non-reimbursing publicly financed health coverage.

That puts an incredible strain on the resources of hundreds of hospitals, threatening both the volume and caliber of care they can provide. One solution is to find the savings opportunities hidden in the $3 Billion these hospitals spend annually on their supply chains. That's where we come in.

We're SupplyCopia

Our advanced data science gives us unique insight into the challenges facing children's hospitals - and the savings opportunities buried in their supply chains.

We have created a customized platform that provides end-to-end capabilities to every children's hospital. Your data, analytics, applications, and insights are delivered in a single instance of the platform. We build bridges with your ERP, EMR and EHR systems.

And perhaps of most value, by working with industry associations, group purchasing organizations, and other relevant entities, we provide a virtual consolidation of spend that delivers savings even to the most minor purchasers.

No patient is too small to merit the best possible care. And no hospital is too small to realize the supply chain savings that can help them provide it.
